The Fellowship of Reconciliation (FOR) & Interfaith Peace-Builders (IFPB) present:

Grassroots Civilian Diplomacy: Activists in the Halls of Power Two-Day Training on Advocacy for Demilitarization

WHEN: November 4-5, 2007

WHERE: Washington, D.C.: The United Methodist Building, 100 Maryland Avenue, N.E., on Capitol Hill

COST: $25-75, sliding scale.

REGISTRATION: Contact Ethan Vesely-Flad at editor@forusa.org or 854-358-4601, x42. Participants are encouraged to join with a partner from your group or local community, to support each other upon returning home. Let us know if you would like help in identifying a partner!

HOUSING: Participants should make their own arrangements.
FOR has a list of inexpensive options.

The U.S. government is seeking another $180 billion in funding to continue the military occupation of Iraq – and is now also threatening Iran with military intervention. How can we effectively advocate for social and political change?

FOR and IFPB are working to demilitarize U.S. foreign policy towards Iran, Israel/Palestine, and Colombia, and within schools and youth communities here at home. This work relies on grassroots people engaging their political representatives. In this hands-on training, participants will develop public advocacy skills through interaction with issue experts, practical exercises, and actual visits with congressional offices.
